Venice, Sept. 6. A Letter from Zant of the 29th of July confirms the taking of Napoli di Romania by Storm; and relates that the Turks had ſince beſieged the Caſtle of Patrazzo. This Letter ſays, that in the taking of Napoli di Romania, after the Turks had in the firſt heat of Action put many to the Sword, they made the reſt Captives; but the Grand Viſier cauſing thoſe Captives to be produced, gave for them 15 or 20 Crowns a head to the Soldiers who had taken them, and then cauſed them to be butchered before him in cold Blood. General Zacco was kept alive, and 'twas ſaid that General Bon was ſent on board the Captain Baſhaw. A new Man of War of 54 Guns has been launched out of the Arſenal here, and is called the Venetia Triomphante. A French Ship which took on board the Bailo Memo at Conſtantinople is arrived here, with ſome of his Servants and Baggage, having left his Excellency at Corfu. A Britiſh Ship called the Duke of Graſton is come in from Canea; with an Account that the Turks have beſieged Suda and Spina Longa, the only two Places which the Venetians have left in the Iſland of Candia. The laſt Advices from our Fleet, are of the third paſt from Zant, where it had been joined on the 1ſt by 4 of our new Men of War, which had been ſent from hence as faſt as they were fitted out, with the Tranſports under their reſpective Convoys. The Fleet after having received that Reinforcement, conſiſted of eighteen Ships of the Line, 2 Fire-ſhips, and 22 Gallies, beſides the 4 which were left in the heighth of Lepanto to hinder the Turkiſh Galliots from paſſing towards the Morea. Another Squadron of Gallies is left under the Command of Signior Piſani General of the Iſlands. The Captain-General Signior Delfino had cauſed the Sick to be ſet aſhore, and ſupplied their Room with other Soldiers and Seamen; and having called together all the Captains who ſerve under him, he declared to them that he was determined to engage the Turkiſh Fleet, exhorting every one to do his Duty, according to the Example which he hoped he ſhould ſet them: He had hoiſted his Flag on Board the Terrour, and had given the Command of all the Gallies to the General of thoſe of Malta; he propoſed to ſail the 4th or 5th, and to take his Station at Sapienza.

Ratisbon, September 16. Letters of the 1ſt Inſtant from Segedin, ſay the laſt Advices from Belgrade were full of the Joy and Confidence of the Turks on their late Succeſſes in the Morea. That Garriſon had again been reinforced with 1500 Janiſaries, and ſeveral Veſſels were come with Ammunition for their Magazines; thoſe which lay at Vipallantea had been unladen, and the Ammunition ſent to Temiſwaer; and 28 others with Ammunition and Proviſions were gone up the Save to Boſnia. The Turks gave out, that they expected 5 Baſhaws to winter at Belgrade, three at Temiſwaer, and ſeveral others on the Save: They uſed very great Cruelties to the Inhabitants of Boſnia, where they have about 30000 Men, and had made themſelves Maſters of Gabella a Fortreſs in Dalmatia. On the 12th in the Evening, General Virmond paſſed thro' this Place in his way to
